

Four Charlotte County beaches off-limits

Posted Aug 27, 2010 6:24 PM EDT

The Charlotte County Health Department is warning you about four beaches.

Englewood Beach, Palm Island North (Night Island), Port Charlotte Beach Complex, Boca Grande beaches all have high levels of bacteria.

"They have some storm water run-off," Environmental Supervisor, Scott Schermerhorn, told me. "They have some septic tanks that are failing. There's a number of different reasons why there could be bacterial contamination in the water."

We'll let you know when it's safe to swim there again.
